THE SUPERVISORS

A special meeting of the Board of Supervisors was held Monday with all members present.

Bids were received for a bridge and retaining wall near the Tripp store on Woodside road, as follows:

Tessler Brothers	$1,092
Murer	1,044
K. D. MacLean	899
Morrie Brothers	996
I. Scott	854

The contract was awarded to I. Scott for $854.

District Attorney Swart presented the petition for highway between Belmont and Crystal Springs Lake and viewers were appointed as follows: George Rousesell, B. F. Yount, J. V. Neuman.

Mr. MacBain presented a deed from a Mr. Hogan for a strip of land to straighten a sharp turn in the Woodside road. The price was $300. Mr. Swart stated that he had examined into the matter and that with this deal the rights of way on the road would be settled. By motion the deed was accepted and a warrant ordered for $300.

Bids were then received for the highway construction between Uncle Tom's Cabin and the north line of the city limits of South San Francisco.

There were four sets of specifications and quite a number of bids were received, which the supervisors considered in the committee room in consultation with the advisory board and County Surveyor Neuman. When they returned to the council chamber, Supervisor Casey moved that the contract be let to Blanchard, Brown & Co. for the sum of $64,987.94, and the motion was seconded and carried. The work is to be straight concrete or hydraulic cement and rock, with Topeka asphalt top, and is one of the set of specifications that were recommended by State Highway Engineer Arthur E. Loder, for that locality.

Supervisor Casey asked for and was granted permission to procure 200 feet of 12-inch galvanized pipe.

Casey also moved that the surveyor prepare plans and specifications for a bridge on the boulevard east of Holy Cross Cemetery and the same prevailed.

Plans and specifications for construction of the road between Belmont and the Reed school house were approved and ordered advertised, bids to be opened Monday, March 30.

Plansa nd specifications for construction of highway between Crystal Springs Lake and the County Farm were approved and ordered advertised, bids to be opened Monday, March 30.

Plans and specifications for construction of highway between Redwood City and Woodside were approved and ordered advertised, bids to be opened Monday, aMrch 30.

The California Automobile Association asked that the county buy state highway bonds and suggested that they would have a meeting in Los Angeles Saturday, March 14, at which they wished one of the supervisors to attend as a guest of the Association. Later it was moved that Chairman Brown attend, without cost to the County.

Plans and specifications for the construction of a part of the El Camino Real between Redwood City and Menlo Park were approved and ordered advertised, bids to be opened Monday, March 30.

By motion of MacBain bids were ordered advertised for the purchase of a site for a county jail. It is planned to erect a good jail building at a probable cost of $50,000.

Development Association

The Board of Governors of the San Mateo County Development Association held a busy session last Tuesday evening in which many important matters were taken up.

A committee was appointed to appear at the meeting of the Civic League of Improvement Clubs to be held Thursday evening in San Francisco at which the matter of building roads to link with the highways of this county will be taken up. The committee will be on hand for the purpose of hearing what our neighbors have to say. San Francisco's City Engineer and a number of Supervisors and other municipal officials will be among those present. San Francisco plans to construct a road to meet the Bay Shore boulevard at the county line.

The work of taking moving pictures of the county's most interesting and scenic points will start shortly, the task being hastened by the fact of our clement weather. In connection with this, the association learns that moving pictures of this county will be a feature of our exhibit at the fair.

Acting upon a request of District Attorney Franklin Swart, the association will assist him in entertaining the district attorney's of the State during the latter part of next month. A convention of district attorney's will meet in San Jose. Swart has arranged to bring them and their families to the county for one day so that they may see and enjoy the scenic beauties which abound in our midst.

District Attorney Swart plans to meet the visitors at the Stanford University with automobiles. The guests will be taken through Menlo Park, Woodside, Redwood City, Belmont and Half Moon Bay, where they will be given a lunch of mussels, crabs, "other fish" and artichokes, all products of the Coast Side, after lunch they will be taken over the Crystal Springs road across the dam and through Hillsborough, San Mateo Burlingame and through the northern end of the peninsula. The days program will probably be concluded with a reception and informal dance at the peninsula hotel.

H. G. Plymire has applied in the Superior Court for letters of administration upon the estate of Duane Hopkins, who died at San Mateo on December 19, 1913. The estate consists of cash in two banks in San Francisco amounting to $3,587.86.

PROBATE.

William L. Butler, a minor, aged 19 years, has petitioned to have J. Early Craig appointed his guardian. The estate consists of an interest in the estate of Mary Benson, deceased. The petitioner, through his guardian ad litem, Charles W. Butler, father of the minor, has filed a contest in Solano county against the probate of the will of the said Mary Benson. If the contest is successful young Butler will have an interest in the estate consisting of 80 acres of agricultural land in Solano county valued at $5000, cash in bank amounting to $4700, and personal property worth $1000. The father, who is a resident of Daly City, is at present in New York. J. Early Craig is also the attorney for the minor.

Beresford Club Open May 1

The new clubhouse of the Beresford Country Club in San Mateo county will be ready for occupancy probably by May 1. The building and furnishings, when completed, wil cost in the neighborhood of $150,000. The structure is unique and contains a beautiful open air swimming pool. The Beresford links are considered perfect from a landscape standpoint.

William Fries is president of the club, of which many millionaires are members.

PIONEER EDUCATOR JOHN CLEMENT NASH

Death Calls a Highly Respected Citizen—Funeral Took Place Wednesday.

The funeral of the late John Clement Nash took place Wednesday morning from the family residence, 7 Twelfth avenue, San Mateo, thence to St. Matthew's Church where a requium high mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul, after which the remains were laid to rest upon that beautiful hill top, known as St. John's Cemetery, west of San Mateo.

The decased had been ill for several weeks from complications due to old age and passed away at an early hour last Monday morning. He was 76 years of age and a native of Ireland.

He came to California direct from his native land via the Isthmus of Panama in 1863 and became a student at St. Mary's College, where he received a fine education that fitted him for a very useful life, and he surely made good in all his undertakings as an educator and worthy citizen, having taught at Half Moon Bay, San Bruno and other places for a period of twenty-five years.

He was a member of the first board of education in San Mateo county for 20 years. Among the old residents who were his pupils and are now prominent in life, can be named. Supervisor James T. Casey, William B. Lawrence, Thomas E. Byrnes, W. W. Casey and others.

Mr. Nash is survived by his loving wife, Mrs. Mary F. Nash; three sons, Joseph H. Nash, county clerk of San Mateo county, C. J. Nash of Maricopa, Frank J. Nash of San Mateo and one daughter, Mrs. Helen Nash Stevenson of San Francisco, together with a very large circle of sincere friends throughout the entire county.

CLUP DEFENDS MRS. M'CARTHY

Political Activities Upheld, Author of Tango Decalogue Praised, Husband Condemned.

Mrs. Mayzellia McCarthy, society and political leader of Hillsborough, famous as the author of the "Ten Commandments of the Tango," was officially upheld Monday in her quarrel with her husband, Dr. Charles F. McCarthy, by the San Mateo Woman's Club, of which she is president.

The woman bitterly resents the slurs cast by McCarthy upon club life, so they adopted these resolutions:

Whereas, A great deal of publicity has been given to unjust and untruthful statements as the result of a husband's desertion of his family, and wherein it has been wrongfully assumed that said desertion was due to the wife's neglect of home for clubs and politics, and

Whereas, This assumed cause but covers up the real causes which have tended to disrupt a home and preceded the wife's club life and her interest in civic matters in which she sought comfort, and

Whereas, Women's clubs impress upon members the principle that the home is the most sacred place on earth, and

Whereas, The belittlement of the efforts of women in their clubs and in politics is detrimental to the cause of human progress and unmanly in men and unwomanly in women, therefore be it

Resolved, by the Woman's Club of San Mateo that we repudiate the unjust and false charges and imputations which have in this case been made and implied against clubdom and against our esteemed President.

A year ago the McCarthys separated. The doctor occupied one-half of their residence, that part in San Mateo, while Mrs. McCarthy made her home in the half which is across the Hillsborough line.

Dr. McCarthy made no bones about his reason for the separation—he pointed to his wife's political activities.

Mrs. McCarthy was then not only president of the Woman's Club, but she had been nominated for Trustee of San Mateo and had announced her intention to run for the State Legislature at the next election.

The she blazed forth into publicity with her famous Tango Ten Commandments. That according to the doctor, was the last straw, and he left on a trip to India.

Then Mrs. McCarthy filed a secret suit for divorce in Redwood City, and again turned her attention to politics.

SUPERIOR COURT

Cases Pending, in Progress, Settled, With Interesting Details to San Mateo County Folks

Judge Buck on Thursday granted an interlocutory decree of divorce to Edith M. Weeks from her husband, William H. Weeks on the grounds of desertion and extreme cruelty. All the property rights, alimony, attorney fees etc. were settled out of court.

Elizabeth V. Thompson has commenced an action against R. E. Callaghan and his wife to recover certain personal property in the possession of the defendants. The property consists of clothing, crockery, chinaware, and personal effects valued at $500. Plaintiff asks for the return of the articles or if not, their equivalent, to-wit, $500. Plaintiff also asks for damages in the sum of $250 for unlawfully detaining the property.

G. R. Stafford has commenced foreclosure proceedings against E. F. Laffity to recover the sum of $1000. The property on which the mortgage is to be foreclosed consists of lots 10 an 11, block 7, Burlingame Grove.

Edwin L. Croop has begun an action for an interlocutory decree of divorce against his wife, Eliza M. Croop on the ground of desertion. The couple was married at the City of San Mateo on July 23, 1904. Plaintiff asks for the custody of the minor child, Walter Hudson Croop, aged 8 years and also for the community property consisting of lots 15 and 16, located in the San Mateo Homestead.

G. Mangini has commenced an action against Ah Sam to recover the sum of $257 and for the restitution and possession of lot 5, block 8, Millbrae Villa Tract. In 1902 the parties entered into an agreement whereby defendant leased the property, agreeing to pay a monthly rental of $20, payable in advance. He has failed to settle for his rent from January, 1913 to January 1914, and is in arrears to the amount of $257. Besides the amount due and the possession of the premises, plaintiff asks for his costs of suit.

Joseph Wehren vs. Axel W. Larsen et al. Demurrer overruled and defendant allowed ten days to answer.

Geo. Dittus vs. Andrew S. Barron. Demurrer set for March 12.

Miller Estate Co. vs. Mark Lane. Judgment ordered for plaintiff as prayed for.

Artichoke Canning House

So rapidly is the industry of raising artichokes for winter market increasing in the region along the coast between Santa Cruz and Tobin that the growers in that section, in order to facilitate the handling of their product, have recently formed an association and built a packing and canning house on Islais creek, San Francisco, on the line of the Ocean Shore Railroad.

The Ocean Shore took 306 cars of artichokes to San Francisco during the last season, and it is expected that approximately 500 cars of the vegetables will be taken out this year.

A fine variety of artichoke is raised on the western slopes of the mountains. The growers expect to ship from the local warehouse to all points of the United States.

A new comet has been discovered. As if the poor old earth had not troubles enough on its hands as it is!

Pacific Union Conference

Probably the largest convention that the Seventh-day Adventists have ever held in this section of California, will convene in the Oakland church of that denomination, on March 11, and will continue until the 22nd. It will be the biennial meeting of the Pacific Union Conference, which includes the four conferences in California, and those in Utah, Nevada, and Arizona. Elder E. E. Andross, President, will have charge of the meetings.

Practically all of the clergymen, and Bible teachers in the six conferences will attend. Not only will the various churches of the state be represented in the business sessions, but believers from all parts of the state will attend for the instruction and spiritual uplift they will get. The workers in the California Conference who will attend, include President E. W. Farnsworth, B. E. Beddoe, A. Brorsen, S. T. Hare, L. K. Dickson, R. S. Fries, Frank A. Coffin, and Claude Conard of Oakland, where the headquarters of the Conference is located, C. E. Ford, of San Francisco, Andrew Nelson, D. E. Robinson, and C. L. Taylor of Sanitarium, G. W. Rine, and H. A. Washburn of St. Helena, J. A. Stevens of Eureka, James Taphouse of Los Gatos, L. L. Hutchinson, of Ferndale and others.

Several of the leading clergymen of the denomination will attend the session, and take a prominent part in it. These will include Elders I. H. Evans, President of the North American Division Conference; W. A. Spicer, Secretary of the eGneral Conference; G. B. Thompson, Secretary of the North American Division Conference; W. W. Eastman, head of the publishing work in North America; and Meade MacGuire, Field Secretary of the Young People's Missionary Volunteer Department. All of these are from the world's headquarters of the denomination in Washington, D. C., with the exception of Elder MacGuire, who has his headquarters in Loveland, Colo.

This will be the eighth of twelve similar meetings scheduled in different parts of the United States and Canada, and which will continue until next May. Thus far one meeting has followed close onto the previous session. Practically every preacher in the denomination in North America will have attended one or other of these meetings before the series closes.

A Ministerial Institute will be the program for the first week, with Elders Evans, Spicer, and Thompson taking leading parts. These three will be the instructors. Two of the subjects will be as follows: "The Ministry," I. H. Evans; "The Bible and Prayer," G. B. Thompson, Elder W. A. Spicer will lecture on "Foreign Missions." Elder MacGuire will also give some instruction concerning the development of the young people's department. It is stated that there are now over 25,000 young men and women in the schools, academies, and colleges operated by the denomination, and the necessity of winning every one of these for gospel workers will be brought to the attention of the delegates. Elder Eastman will teli of the progress that is being made in North America toward distributing Christian literature.

During the last week of the session, business affairs will be transacted. Reports will beg iven by President Andross, the secretary, the treasurer, secretaries of the Religious Liberty, Sabbath school, and Young People's Departments, presidents of the various state conferences and other officials. Officers will be elected for the next two years, credentials and licenses issued, and it is probable that several changes will be made in the forces in different parts of the Pacific Union territory. It is also possible that some recruits will be secured for foreign mission fields.

We're All the Same

A correspondent in the "Chronicle" says: "It was unfortunate that the first-class Japanese passengers on the Tenyo Maru were treated rather unceremoniously on their arrival here a few days ago. Instead of being permitted to come ashore upon the mooring of the vessel, as first-lass passengers always had been, they were transferred to Angel Island, and there subjected to physicial examination, just as if they were common immigrants of the laboring class. Even the women, who were respectable and well-bred, were handled, to put it mildly, in an unconventional manner." The very idea of treating first-class passengers and "well-bred" persons in the same manner as common laborers. The immigration officials in San Francisco apparently do not recognize the distinctions of wealth and caste. Teh "Chronicle" man, to show his approval of the protest, heads it: "A Called-for Protest." —Labor Clarion.

San Joaquin Single Tax

We have the Single Tax in operation right here in California, and have had it since 1909. Our Constitution requires "all property" to be taxed. Irrigation districts are maintained, and the interest and sinking fund of their bonds paid, from the proceeds of an "assessment," which was formerly levied on "real property and the improvements thereon." Distinguishing this "assessment" from a "tax" the Legislature in March, 1909, amended the law as follows:

"Improvements on any lands or town lots within such district shall be exempt from taxation for any of the purposes mentioned in this act.

"The term improvements as used in this section includes trees, vines, alfalfa and all growing crops and all buildings and structures of whatsoever class or description erected or being erected upon said lands or city or town lots.

"Provided, that the provisions of this section relating to the exemption of improvements on any lands or town lots situated within the district now organized unless said provision shall be approved by a vote of a majority of the resident holders of title to land situated within the district and subject to taxation therein at a special election" (General laws of California, Act 1726, Section 35).

A number of the old districts have already adopted the new system of exempting improvements. When the required election was held in the Modesto district, one of the arguments used was that the taxing of improvements was holding back the town. The change was strongly advocated by the farmers and was adopted.

The people living in the irrigation districts that are execmpting improvements from taxation are more than pleased with the new system. Some of them are actually isuing circulars advertising the fact that the "Single Tax" is in operation in the district. The Oakdale real estate men have used for one of these circulars an editorial published by the "Oakdale Leader," April 20, 1911, which in part says:

"The Oakdale Irrigation District has abandoned the primitive plan of taxing both lands and improvements and has assessed the land alone for the cost of irrigation.

"This means that you do not have to pay taxes on your house, barn, and growing crops for irrigation revenues. The man who does not improve his land bears the irrigation burden equally with the man who does. The assessments are equal, excluding the physical conditions of the land. As an example, the system operating under the old plan taxes both the improvements and the land. A man owning 20 acres of land is assessed on a valuation of $2,000; on his crops, houses, etc., $1,000. At this rate he would pay taxes on a valuation of $3,000.

"If this man was in the Oakdale district he would pay taxes on a valuation of $2,000. Many of the settlers in the older districtes lived in barns because the taxes on improvements prohibited them living in comfortable houses with modern conveniences.

"Considering the modern plan of taxation, and the fact that part of the ditches of the Oakdale Irrigation district will be concreted, this irrigation district offers the best inducements to the homeseekers and cannot be surpassed by any other district in the world. It offers a premium to energy and ability."

Is there any other farming district in the United States outside of this fertile circular inviting homeseekers to come and settle with them on their farms?

The farmers of the great San Joaquin Valley, here in California, know by actual experience the advantages of the Single Tax, and believe it to be the best inducement that they can offer to farmers in other places to come and settle among them.

Nature Aids Building Homes

C. B. Smith, who recently built a natty rustic fence on three sides of his four-lot residence site, is now constructing a white stone wall the full length of the lot. The material used is similar in form to the obselete street cobbles, of about the same size, but white, and are gathered on the ocean shore in the limits of the Triangle. Being of extreme hardness, they admit of a smooth polish, which is accomplished by the action of the waves in nature's workshop by rolling them hither and thither on the beach. They are extensively used here in the construction of chimneys, pillars to porches, and in many other ways, adding beauty, uniqueness and romantic effect in every instance. Their adaptability for this purpose is one of the first things to attract the eye and admiration of the visitor. When completed Mr. Smith's bungalow will receive not a little share of this attention.—Comet.

THERE IS NOT ONE GOOD ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF WAR WITH MEXICO.

Without having any inside information as to his state of mind, but judging solely by his public statement and acts, President Wilson is not going to send te United States army into Mexico unless he is forced to do so by an irresistable public sentiment.

As a nation we have absolutely nothing to gain by war with Mexico.

As individuals we have nothing to gain by war with Mexico,, excepting those few of us who have invested some of our millions in Mexican mines or railways.

As a nation and as individuals we have everything to lose by a war with Mexico.

The cost to us in lives and money of such a war is beyond computation.

We have every confidence in the intention and ability of President Wilson to keep the United States army on this side of the border where it belongs.

The great danger in the situation is that the men whose financial interests will be served by a war with Mexico will take advantage of some untoward event such as the killing of Americans or other foreigners in Mexico, to create a war sentiment in this country which even so strong a man as President Wilson will not be able to resist.

As we view the Mexican situation we can scarcely conceive of anything happening on the other side of the border that would justify the sacrifice of thousands of Americans that would inevitably result from sending the United States army into Mexico.

That the Mexican situation is fraught with grave danger to this country must be admitted by every man who analyzes it even superficially.

The situation calls for cool headedness on the part of every loyal American from the president down.

Let us all keep cool and not lose sight of this vital fact: A MEXICAN WAR WILL MEAN THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS of dead and crippled Americans; thousands upon thousands of broken-hearted American women; thousands upon thousands of fatherless American children; hundreds of millions of dollars added to the tax burden, every dollar of which must finally be paid by the working people of this country.

We are about due for some eagle-screaming speeches in congress by men who will be drinking cocktails in their clubs when the fighting is being done.

Let us brand the first man who makes such a speech as a traitor to his country.—Daily San Francisco News.

LIFE

Man comes into the world without his consent and leaves it against his will.

During his stay on earth his time is spent in one continuous round of contraries and misunderstandings. In his infancy he is an angel; in his boyhood he is a devil; in his manhood he is everything from a lizard up; in his duties he is a dam fool; if he raises a family he is a chump; if he raises a check, he is a thief, and then the law raises hell with him, if he is a poor man, he is a poor manager and has no sense; if he is rich he is dishonest but considered smart; if he is in politics, he is a grafter and a crook, if he is out of politics, you can't place him as he is "an undesirable citizen;" if he goes to church he is a hypocrite, if he stays away from church he is a sinner; if he donates to foreign missions he does it for show; if he doesn't he is stingy and a "tight wad." When he first comes into the world, everybody wants to kiss him—before he goes out, they all want to kick him. If he dies young there was a great future for him; if he lives to a ripe old age, he is in the way, only living to save funeral expenses.

Life is a Funny Proposition After All

SATISFACTION WHEN YOU'VE DONE YOUR BEST.

When you've done your work as well as you can
And your past is clean and your conscience clear,
When you know that you haven't wronged any man,
And you've made no foe to be faced with fear,
The busy world may be still inclined
To deny what you have longed to claim,
But it cannot rob you of peace of mind
Or bring to your cheeks the blush of shame.
And the world, however it may connive
To keep you down and to hold you back,
Must respect the hopes that you keep alive,
Though its praise may be for the gifts you lack,
And the scorn on the lips of the richest man
Is not a thing you have cause to fear,
When you've done your work as well as you can
And your past is clean and your conscience clear.

HAVE A CHRISTENING AT YOUR FARM.

The man who owns and operates a farm ought to name it. He ought to take enough pride in his home and enough satisfaction in the sort of things that come off his farm for the market to label them with a distinctive name. By and bye, if his products are worth buying, the name will be a real asset to him. The butter, chickens, hogs, wheat, potatoes, beans and apples brought from such and such a farm will after a time find a ready demand and will be asked for by those who can identify the sources of the goods they approve and desire again.

An idle dollar is still worth a hundred cents; an idle man is worth less than nothing.

UNEMPLOYED ARMY DEPARTS

Last Tuesday afternoon the unemployed army that has held forth on Fifth and Howard streets under the command of Strikebreaker Kelly, left San Francisco, ostensibly for Washington, D. C., but in reality destined to doom long before that city is reached.

After loud boasting as to what he would do with his army of thousands when he was ready to move Kelly is now in command of one of three wings of the army of the unemployed. The total number of men now moving eastwrad is about 1800, split up into three separate and distinct armies, under three different commanders, each with no love whatever for the others.

It is safe to say that before Utah is reached the army will consist of nothing but the officers and a few stragglers picked up here and there who will desire to experiment a little with the novelty of the thing.

The attempt of San Francisco to deal with the unemployed problem was indeed disastrous and fulfilled the predictions of those who previously had had some little experience with migratory birds. After spending more than $70,000 in an endeavor to feed and house the idle men, the city found itself in worse shape than before the thing was started, and hopelessly unable to cope with the situation in any satisfactory manner.

Misdirected sympathy plunged the city into an attempt to do the wandering idle men a service. The result was otherwise; instead of doing good, harm was done. Anyone who has had any experience whatever with meandering about the county in tramp fashion knows that these men would have been much better off scattered about the country in twos and threes than they were under such conditions as the city was able to provide. In the country districts it is always much easier to find a warm place to sleep than in the cities, and there is no danger of the spreading of disease, nor do the wanders become an unbearable burden to anyone. So that purely from the standpoint of the men themselves it was a mistake to attempt to take care of them, that is, the footloose, migratory men. No city could cope wtih such a condition.

Such armies as this city experimented with this winter, and which it has in its midst every winter, are made up largely of three kinds of men—the young fellow with the call of the wild in him, out to satisfy his spirit of adventure, which must be satisfied in one way or another; the seasonal worker who travels from one place to another after he has allowed his season's earnings to slip through his fingers in the habitual fashion; and the cripple who is unable to turn his hand to anything that may offer, and must of necessity be something of a burden upon society.

The professional tramp. No, he would not be seen in such a crowd. To him the above-described crowd is made up of punks, stews and hoosiers, not worthy to associate with a real yegg.

Taking into account the character of the men their aimless wandering and utter unconcern with whether they are in San Francisco or elsewhere, and the uselessness of trying to care for all that such conditions attract to the city, the failure of San Francisco to solve the problem of the unemployed in the fashion attempted is not at all surprising to those who know something of the problem as it really exists, and who have no theories to advance or medicine to administer guaranteed to cure the disease. The experimnet ended even more fortunately than such men anticipated.

In the meantime it gave the blatant Kelly and others of his kind an opportunity to attract attention to themselves and gather in a few unearned dimes, parade an unpossessed courage and threaten society in general with all sorts of dire vengeance in the event of failure to comply with their wishes.

However, the experiment has been made, the milk has been spilt, the army is on its way, and perhaps the dreamers are both happier and wiser. If this be the net result of our winter's reverie, and no more hurtful after effects are to be suffered, it is as well, perhaps, to save our tears for another day, and bend our energies to the finding of some real solution of the problem of unemployment, for it is a problem that must be solved.—Labor Clarion.

DISPLAY NEWS

Suppose advertising of all kinds, the world over, was wiped out for a month—utterly obliterated. Yes, it would ruin business, but it would do more. It would make this old world positively stupid. Why? Because advertising is news, and we must keep pace with the news or grow stale.

Newspaper advertising, the best on earth, is displayed news paid for with a purpose. The latest news in newspaper advertising, a special sale of furs, a big reduction in suits, a saving in groceries, furniture at annual sale prices or five bars of soap for the price of three—all this latest news is as important to the housewife and to the husband who pays the bills as the last word from Mexico or an account of the newest municipal or society scandal. Advertising is positively and absolutely news. Successful advertisers realize this and make their advertisements as newsy as possible. And our readers should and must keep up with them or they lose the chances offered by them, beside growing stale for lack of store news.

President Wilson is trying to find the name of an anonymous admirer who lately sent him four five-dollar gold pieces. To us this seems a little extreme though we admit that a similar experience in this office would so disturb our balance as to turn the red into black at the bank. However, our admirers, who are also mighty anonymous, are not giving us any chances to declaim melodramatically, "Take back your gold."

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDY ON

LAWFUL ON THE SABBATH.

Luke 13:10-17; 14:1-6—March 15.

"The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath."—Mark 2:27.

MUCH confusion prevails respecting the Sabbath. Few realize that God's arrangements with Jesus' followers are totally different from those which He made with Natural Israel under the Law Covenant. Everything under that Covenant contained a valuable lesson for Christians; but to mistake type for antitype is to confuse our minds and to miss the force of the antitype.

There was no Sabbath before the Jewish Law, except that God rested on the seventh great Day of the Creative Week. Enoch, Abraham, and others pleasing to God, knew nothing about the Sabbath, even as they knew nothing about the Atonement Day sacrifices or other matters appertaining to Israel's Law Covenant.

Israel a House of Servants—the Church a House of Sons.

Israel was a House of Servants, under Moses; but the Church is a House of Sons, under Christ. (Hebrews 3: 1-6.) God's method of dealing with the House of Servants very properly differed from His method with the House of Sons. Commands are given servants without explanation why or wherefore. But to the true Christian the Heavenly Father makes known His purposes, that His sons may sympathetically enter into those plans, by joyful obedience to the extent of self-sacrifice.

Confusion on the Sabbath Day.

Jesus and the Apostles were Jews, and were under the Law Covenant until Jesus by His death became "the end of the Law for righteousness to every one that believeth." Since then Jesus' followers are in no sense bound by the Jewish Law. In dealing with the House of Sons God, through the Head of that House, has set up a new Law, which means much more than Moses' Law was understood to signify. It is the Law of Love. Jesus said: "A new commandment I give you, That ye love one another as I have loved you."

Early in the Gospel Dispensation Jesus' followers began to meet on the first day of the week. Jesus arose from the dead on that day, and appeared several times to His followers. Apparently it became a custom amongst the disciples to fellowship on that day, because of their desire to remember the Master. Quite probably they kept the Sabbath as well, for a time. Evidently they had difficulty in realizing how completely they had passed from the domination of Moses' Law to be under the Headship of Jesus.

To Do Good on the Sabbath.

Jesus did many of His miracles on the Sabbath, partly no doubt to emphasize the fact that the Great Sabbath, the seventh thousand-year Day of earth's history, will be the time of His Kingdom, in which mankind will be privileged to be healed from sin, sorrow and pain, and brought to the full perfection of human nature, lost in Eden and redeemed at Calvary.

Since Jesus was a Jew, and therefore bound by the Jewish Law, He could do nothing contrary to that Law. But He corrected certain misapprehensions of the Law, which had crept in through the teachings of the Doctors of the Law and the Pharisees. For show these exaggerated the letter of the Law in some respects, while entirely ignoring its spirit. In various ways they made God's Law appear unreasonable; and while particular in inconsiderable trifles, they set aside the much more weighty matters of justice, love and mercy.

In today's lesson, we have two instances of healing on the Sabbath. Jesus healed a woman who had been bowed down for eighteen years with an infirmity. But the ruler of the synagogue was indignant, and said to the people, There are six days in which you can come and be healed, rather than on the Sabbath. This was intended as a special rebuke to Jesus, intimating that He violated the Law. But the Lord's reply put His adversaries to shame.

Threshing Wheat on the Sabbath.

The other case was that of a man troubled with dropsy. Jesus, knowing their mental attitude, discussed the subject in advance, asking the Doctors of the Law and the Pharisees, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath, or not?" They made no answer. Then He healed the sick man, and inquired of the critics, "Which of you having an ass or an ox fall into a pit would not straightway draw him out on a Sabbath day?" They could not answer.

A proper understanding of the Sabbath, the rest which God has provided for His people, is a great blessing—a perpetual joy. Without regard to which day, the Apostle suggests that we forsake not the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; and so much the more as we see the glorious Day of Messiah's Kingdom approaching, and the shadows of darkness, ignorance and superstition passing away.—Hebrews 10:25.

CONVICT WORK ON PUBLIC HIGHWAYS

Majority of States Now Use Prison Labor.

DISCARD CONTRACT SYSTEM

During the Present Year Thirteen States Have Passed Laws Allowing the Use of Convicts In the Construction and Repair of Roads.

Thirteen states have passed laws during the present year allowing the use of convicts in the construction and repair of highways, according to a compilation by Dr. E. Stagg Whitin, assistant in social legislation in Columbia university and chairman of the executive committee of the national committee on prison labor. They are Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, New Jersey, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Vermont, West Virginia and Wisconsin. As many other states had previously passed similar legislation, but few of the forty-eight states have not adopted the policy of using prisoners to build and maintain public roads.

West Virginia and Iowa are the two states whose laws regarding the working of convicts on highways stand out most prominently. So anxious was the governor of the former state to secure an effective law that he went to New York and with the assistance of representatives of the national committee on prison labor, of the road department of Columbia university and of the legislative drafting bureau worked out bills making compulsory the employment of convicts on the roads. The West Virginia law authorizes the county courts to make appropriations out of road funds for convict work; it states that the court shall sentence any male person over sixteen to road work instead of to the county jail; persons charged with misdemeanors unable to furnish bail shall work on the roads and if acquitted when tried shall be paid 50 cents a day for each day's work they perform; justices of the peace shall sentence to work on the roads persons convicted of crime whom otherwise they would send to the county jail.

Another feature of the West Virginia law is the establishment of a state road bureau to supervise any plans proposed by a county for using prison labor in road building. The plans approved, the county shall apply to the board of control for the number of prisoners required and shall state the length of time they shall be needed. The board shall, as far as possible, give equal service to each of the counties and shall determine which prisoners may be assigned to such work. The warden is to provide suitable and movable quarters, which shall be built, where possible, by convict labor. The convicts shall remain under direct control of the warden, their work, however, being under the supervision of the road bureau.

In Iowa the board of control of the state institutions with the advice of the warden of any penal institution, may permit able bodied male prisoners to work on the roads. The law specifically states such labor shall not be leased to contractors. A prisoner opposed to such work, or whose character and disposition make it probable that he would attempt escape or be unruly, is not to be worked on the highways. Although the prisoners are under the jurisdiction of the warden while building or repairing roads, their work is supervised by the state highway commissioner. Prisoners employed on the highways of Iowa receive such part of their earnings above the cost of their keep as the board deems equitable, the earnings either being funded or given to their dependent families. Before Iowa passed her present prison labor laws, George W. Cosson, attorney general of the state, made a thorough investigation of the prisons of his own and other states, and strongly denounced the contract system, under which the prisoners were employed up to that time. Mr. Cosson drew up the road bill and is of the opinion it will do much to drive the contract system out of the state.

DEATH TOLL OF CALIFORNIA INDUSTRY.

Every year in California more than 600 workers are killed, almost 1,000 suffer the loss of fingers, legs, arms, and are otherwise permanently disabled, while more than 11,000 are laid up for longer than one week, according to a statement just issued by Ira B. Cross, Secretary of the Industrial Accident Commission of California.

The above figures, representing only the accidents which employers of the State have reported to the Commission, prove conclsively that California's need of a compulsory Workmen's Compensation Act is a real one.

During the year 1913, about 25,000 industrial accidents were reported to the Commission, yet this astounding figure does not include the thousands who are injured in agricultural pursuits. Of this enormous number over 12,000 were cases in which death or disability for more than one week had resulted. The total loss in wages, to say nothing of the misery, poverty and suffering caused by those thousands of accidents, was approximately $18,250,000. This is an enormous sacrifice for the State of California to make for its industrial accidents. This cost is borne almost solely by the workingmen and their families, as is shown by the fact that the average period of disablement in those cases where the disability was only of a temporary nature, was slightly more than 26 days, almost a month, and yet for their injury, the workmen received on an average, the magnificent sum of $34.00; for a death, but $318.00 was paid on the average, although in 40 per cent of all death cases there were three persons dependent upon the killed man.

Approximately one-half of these accidents can be prevented through the proper safeguarding of machinery and the use of ordinary safety devices. At the present time, the Industrial Accident Commission is actively engaged in a "Safety First" campaign. The cost of the remaining 50 per cent of accidents, which seemingly cannot be prevented, should be borne by the industry itself which cripples its workers. This is the object of the Compensation Act as passed by the last Legislature.

The above facts prove more conclusively than any amount of argument, that California is wise in following the example of all civilized countries of Europe and of twenty-five states of the Union in adopting a satisfactory Workmen's Compensation Act.

BEFORE THE DAYS OF THE LINOTYPE

A western newspaper started on its career under peculiar circumstances. The editor of the Rocky Mountain Cyclone thus opened the first article of the first issue of his paper: "We begin the publication of the Rocqy Mountain Cyclone with some phew diphiculties in the way. The type phounder phrom whom we bought the outphit phor this printing ophis phailed to supply any ephs or cays, and it wilyl be phopr or phive weepues bephore we can get any. W ehave ordered the missing letters, and will have to wait until they come. We don't lique the looque ov this variety ov spelling any better than our readers, but mistax will happen in the best regulated ov phamilies, and iph the cees and exes and ques hold out we shall ceep (sound the c hard) the Cyclone whirling aphter a phahion till the sorts arrive. It is no joque to us, it is a serious aphair."

Uncle Joe Cannon celebrated last Sunday by joining the Young Men's Christian Association in Saginaw. Every politician is a joiner. Just before the election the disease is virulently epidemic among candidates. It is an old trick, and though a little baggy at knees still serves for occasion.

The Daly City Record is a local newspaper that is ever ready to aid in a progressive movement, or defend the people against a wrong. It is outspoken and never stabs in the dark. Therefore is just the paper that every citizen of Daly City should read.

Sunnyvale, where there is a competent Board of Trustees, recently sold $75,000 of municipal bonds for a premium of $1,950. Daly City has been unable as yet to sell her $90,000 water bonds at par. A bid of par has been accepted, but the bond buyer has not yet approved the transcript as he has a right to do before giving up his 90,000 kopecks.

Obstructing Progress

Many county land owners have shown commendable public spirit in their attitude toward the county in the matter of providing rights of way for the new roads that are about to be constructed. Some have been so generous as to give their land without charge, while others are so unreasonable as to force the county into lawsuits that the public may secure that to which it is entitled. The most short-sighted man in a community is the man who will attempt, bu an unfair attitude, to block the community's progress through hindering the building of roads. There is no movement that tends to greater development than this improvement. San Mateo county has been one of the back numbers of the State in the matter of highways and it would continue to be so for all the encouragement that has been given by some of its wealthy citizens. Happily there is a recourse in the courts of justice, and since the supervisors must go to law, it is hoped that the obstructors will be given all the application that they deserve. In the end they will have less money, less land and a wholesome experience. But in spite of their lack of public spirit they will share the benefit of good roads.—Redwood City Den.

St. Bruno Church Entertainment

Saturday evening, March 14, the parishioners of St. Bruno's church, San Bruno, the Rev. W. J. Cantwell, pastor, will give a high class entertainment in honor of St. Patrick at Green's Hall. A most attractive program will be presented, including some of the best amateur and professional talent in San Francisco. There will be Irish songs, dances, music, recitations, etc.

Special music for the social to follow the program has been secured, and a most enjoyable evening is assured everybody attending. Frank S. Drady of Lomita Park will act as master of cremonies for the evening.

Delegations from along the Peninsula have promised to be in attendance.

Every holder of an admission ticket will be entitled to a chance of winning a pot of real shamrock recently received from the Emerald Isle.

Life is always worth living if you've got the price.

DALY CITY TRUSTEES

Business Transacted by the Board at Its Last Meeting

The meeting of the Board of Trustees Monday night was attended by all the members.

Mrs. Celia Brackan was granted a dance hall license for three months.

The usual business was suspended to give Mr. Springer of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. and opportunity to be heard relative to telephone service in Daly City.

He first told that it was the company's disire to improve the service with an exhange in Daly City, and then added that no such radical change could be made without first getting consent of the Railroad Commission. He spoke of the Board having refused to allow the installation of necessary poles as the reason why the service has not been improved long ago. Freyer asked a number of important questions calculated to get results but he had no support, so there was not a thing accomplished.

An inspection committee from the Carpenter's Local, 1913, called attention to the new city hall construction, pointed out very plain defects in the plans and specifications, one instance being only six-inch joists where the Fire Department are to use the building. Smith, the architect, made an elaborate explanation after which the building committee retired to the Socialist's hall where they evidently indulged in one of their usual star chamber conferences, as it was executive strictly. On returning, it was ordered that the plans be changed. Contractor Doering mentioned the fact that he had ordered his lumber by car load, and would necessarily be put to considerable extra expense. Its another clear case where Daly City has wasted money on defective schemes. Doering will not be and should not be the loser, in fact, he will be entitled to considerable extra pay and can now take his own time for completion, as his contract has been pactically broken by the City because of these defective plans.

A. G. Robertson headed an indignant delegation from Hillcrest, asking the board to rescind its appointment of W. M. Golden as inspector of the proposed sidewalk and grading work on Hillcrest Drive. Golden was appointed a week before at the suggestion of Green who said he did it to prevent any suspicion of a frame-up, and was opposed by Freyer who insisted that others might be given a chance. The Hillcresters were in dead earnest and asked the board to appoint L. Peterson. Mr. Golden was present and gracefully resigned, whereupon Ross expressed his humiliation that such a thing should happen. It's another case of two much haste and no consideration. No appointment was made in place of Mr. Golden—they are slow enough now.

No reports of any kind were called for and that may account for the city attorney not reporting on that San Bruno road matter that he has been promising for a month.

Engineer Roberts arose to bemoan the fact that only one measily bid had been made for the constructoin of the municipal system, and he attributed the evident fear of contractors as caused by the chaotic conditions in Daly City. In his way, he referred to the utter lack of confidence of the people in the governing power of the board, and of the disincorporation agitation that was caused by this same lack of confidence. He also recited the trouble in selling the bonds but did not repeat what he said a week ago about Sunnyvale selling $75,000 worth of bonds for a premium of $1,950. He recommended then, that bids be advertised, for the purchase of pipes, etc. and for constructing the reservoir and pumping station, the two latter bids to be restricted to Daly City contractors. It was so ordered and the advertisement for such bids appear elsewhere in this issue of the Record.

Someone in the audience wanted to know what had been done about the Holbrook house? N-u-t-h-i-n.

Bill of Smith & Stewart, for $200 architecural fees, and the usual other Smith bills were allowed.

The meeting adjourned at meet again next Monday night when the election plans will be made. The scheme is already framed up for each trustees to name an election officer in each precinct, making five, and the city clerk will appoint the sixth official in each precinct. (Why not let the "Jester" do it, Smith might not have time.) There will be five precincts, the same as recently designated by the county for the state and county elections this year, and that will cost $300 for election officers alone. The program means four so-called Socialists to two of the rest of us.

Ladie's shampoo from 9 to 12, every day except Saturday, Sunday and Holidays only 35 cents. *

CITY ELECTION MONDAY, APRIL 13, 1914

The $5,329.43 that has seemingly gone astray or wasted—demands an itemized statement of our mnuicipal affairs NOW—not on the eve of election. But this demand will not be heeded, for the "solid three" dare not publish an itemized statement, showing how "Blackie" Ford performed no service and left Daly City in the lurch to the tune of several hundred dollars.

CITY ELECTION MONDAY, APRIL 13, 1914

Carpenter's Local, 1913, gave the taxpayers most excellent service in pointing out those defective points in the city hall plans. How much better it would have been to have secured a reliable local architect for a consideration of 3 per cent than to have gone blindfolded to the bat and given it to Smith & Stewart, who are responsible for these defects, and given them 6 per cent. But what more can be expected from so incompetent a trio?

CITY ELECTION MONDAY, APRIL 13, 1914

An anti-election promise of the "solid three" was the cross streets leading from Vista Grande to Hillcrest, and thereby make possible a free mail delivery, the same as in the Cocker Tract. They have utterly failed to make this greatly needed improvement, the same as they have failed to do anything else, until now those streets will cost at least double what they would have cost two years ago. Why? Posibly, H. H. Smith did not want it. From 60 to 90 days is all that is needed by competent trustees to accomplish this improvement, and when Moran, O'Rourk and Poor are elected they will do the trick and the people will profit thereby.

Bad Street Car Accident

The rear trucks of a south-bound Cemetery car left the rails in front of Ben Haubrich's residence in Colma early Monday morning and turned into the excavation of the other track, which is being reconstructed preparatory for the State Highway paving, with such force that the car barely escaped turning over.

So terrific was the shock that all the passengers were badly shaken up and four were badly injured, viz:

James Birne, Daly City—Internal injury.

Mrs. R. Paglinca, Daly City, sprained knee.

Antone Cerlo, 336 Molt street, San Francisco—sprained shoulder and badly lacerated scalp.

Unknown man, San Francisco—broken leg. He was taken to the hospital in the city by a pasing automobile and his name could not be learned by the Record reporter.

Ish Ka Bibble

"The California State Automobile Association is in receipt of numerous complaints of the manner in which automobilists were held up for speeding in Daly City on Sunday last. The association is now investigating the actions of these officers and should the statements of the complainants be found true then the association will notify their members of these conditions and will advise them to avoid going through Daly City in future."

This paragraph appeared in a San Francisco newspaper last week. The only fault is that the complaint is not true. Judge Johnson says that but one automobilist was fined at all and that was for only $5. If the California S. A. A. would smoke up a little and be thankful for the leniency shown in Daly City, they would fare better.

Beresford Club Open May 1

The new clubhouse of the Beresford Country Club in San Mateo county will be ready for occupancy probably by May 1. The building and furnishings, when completed, wil cost in the neighborhood of $150,000. The structure is unique and contains a beautiful open air swimming pool. The Beresford links are considered perfect from a landscape standpoint.

William Fries is president of the club, of which many millionaires are members.

DALY CITY CITIZEN'S LEAGUE

On Wednesday evening the executive committee and many ladies and gentlemen from all parts of Daly City, met at the residence of Frank B. Woodhouse, 15 Wellington avenue, and perfected the organization of the Citizin's League of Daly City, including the campaign committee which will probably have other names added to it.

The following permanent officers have been duly elected:

PRESIDENT—William M. Talbott.
SECRETARY—Thomas P. Moran.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—Samuel R. Emmons, chairman; James H. Woodward; George W. Savage; Francis Murphy; Philip Fahy; E. J. Gozzett.
FINANCE COMMITTEE—J. L. Brown, chairman; James H. Woodward; George W. Savage.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Gozzett, Amy Grace	Swan, Mabel
Howard, Bertha Velzora	Talbott, Ella Highee
Lang, Frances	Tickner, Lola Caroline
Langley, Lottie	Toft, Mrs. Henry
McKay, Jennie	Woodhouse, Leila A.

The ladies of the Campaign Committee are to meet with Mrs. Woodhouse, 15 Wellington avenue, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, to perfect their organization into what will likely be the Ladies Auxiliary of the Citizen's League of Daly City. Every lady on the above list is invited to attend and all others who wish to unite with this movement to purify the conditions of Daly City.

Daly City Municipal Candidates

On Wednesday evening, March 4, 1914, the following candidates had legally filed their verification papers with County Clerk Joseph H. Nash, as contestants for the municipal offices of Daly City:

FOR TRUSTEES—three to elect.
Timothy Francis O'Rourk.
Thomas Paul Moran.
Edward Richard Poor.
Althens John Green.
Reuben Raymond Castle.
Oscar Muessdorffer.
Raymond A. Jess.
Wiliam Weiss.
Silvio Landini.
Charlse Leo Biebel.
William R. Gegax.
FOR CITY CLERK.
Frank B. Woodhouse.
George Napoleon Smith.
FOR CITY TREASURER.
Robert Edwrad Fine.
Joseph F. Pankewicz.
Mrs. Emma Hobson.
Timothy Sheehan.

The names in boldface letters are the candidates nominated by the Citizens' League of Daly City—all first-class citizens and thorough business men—just the men we need to improve the conditions in Daly City.

RESOLUTION OF INTENTION No. 1

RESOLVED, that it is the intention of the Board of Trustees of Daly City to order the following work to be done and improvement to be made in said city, to-wit:

That Hillcrest Drive in said city, on the Southerly side thereof, from the Easterly line of Railroad Avenue to a point 1000 feet Easterly from the Easterly line of San Diego Avenue, and on the Northerly side thereof, from the Easterly line of Railroad Avenue to a point 70.82 feet Easterly from the point of intersection of the Northerly line of said Hillcrest Drive with the Easterly line of Santa Barbara Avenue, have artificial stone sidewalks six (6) feet wide constructed to the official grade, where such sidewalks have not already been constructed as indicated on the plan adopted for doing said work, save and excepting the crossings and terminations shown thereon and included therein, upon all of which said crossings and terminations artificial stone sidewalks and curbs shall be constructed upon the full space allotted for sidewalk purposes as shown on said plan, and the curbs shall conform to the curved lines shown thereon.

All work shall be done in accordance with the special plans and specifications heretofore adopted for doing said work and now on file in the office of the city clerk.

The clerk shall cause this Resolution of Intention to be published twice in the Daly City Record, a weekly newspaper published and circulated in said city, and hereby designated for that purpose by the Board of Trustees.

The Street Superintendent shall, immediately, cause to be conspicuously posted along the line of said contemplated work and improvement, notices of the passage of this Resolution of Intention, in the manner and form required by law.

All of the herein proposed work shall be done in pursuance of an act of the Legislature of the State of California, designated as the "Improvemnt Act of 1911" approved April 7, 1911.

I hereby certify that the foregoing Resolution of Intention was duly and regularly introduced and adopted by the Board of Trustees of the City of Daly City on the 2d day of March, 1914, by the following vote:

Ayes, Trustees Biebel, Freyer, Green, Landini, Ross.
Noes, Trustees none.
Absent, Trustees none.
ATTEST:
GEO. N. SMITH,
City Clerk.

GROWTH OF UNIONS.

Capital Shows Weakness In Pretending to Ignore Labor.

There are those who chafe at what they regard as the slow growth of the trade union movement, says the Shoe Workers' Journal. They are impatient because it is not immediately as powerful as they recognize it could and would be if it embraced the entire wage earning population.

There are others, however, to whom the growth of the union movement appears healthy and vigorous, all things considered. It is only a few years ago that the membership of the American Federation of Labor was around 600,000. A committee of the National Manufacturers' convention in Detroit recently reported in opposition to the union label idea that the entire membership of unions committed to the union label proposition was only 400,000. At one time this statement might have been applied to the American Federation of Labor with truth, but it would be about twenty years ago, or, in other words, the figures are about twenty years behind the times.

In the last twenty years the American labor movement, as represented by the American Federation of Labor, has multiplied five times, and there are more than five times as many people committed to the union label idea than the committee of the manufacturers conceded. The trouble with the manufacturers is that they underestimate the union strength, and they speak foolishly when they imagine that a retail dealer will refuse to handle union label products demanded by a thousand employees and put in their place nonunion products demanded by one employer.

It would be better for employing interests to recognize that the steady growth of the movement must be based upon strong fundamental reasons and that it is better to treat with it in tolerance and liberality with a view to industrial peace rather than to be perpetually making ineffective efforts to suppress the insuppressible.

To those members of organized labor who feel impatient and who imagine that the growth of the movement is slow we repeat the statement that the American trade union movement has multiplied by five in the last twenty years, and, with all due respect to their opinions, this is not a slow growth. On the contrary, the rate of growth is perhaps fully as fast as is healthful, meaning by this that it is just as essential that the movement should grow on sound lines as that it should grow in large numbers, and if it grow on sound lines it must be by the increasing intelligence of the rank and file of its membership, and this increasing intelligence must be the product of education and experience in union principles and work as well as in the everyday affairs of life.

The growth spoken of in which the American labor movement multiplies by five in twenty years is natural growth, and when we speak of 2,007,650 members we speak of 2,007,650 members in good standing whose dues are paid within reasonable limits, and these figures do not include many thousands of other members who are not financially in good standing, but who are considered union members and are expected and without doubt intend to reinstate themselves.

Dividing Strength.

A recent news item gives particulars of an injunction suit in Philadelphia between a seceding union of street car men and the regular organization. The suit was decided in favor of the regular organization. It is only a few years back that the street car men of Philadelphia had a desperate battle for the right to organize and to secure some slight improvement in their condition. They were none too strong to win with all their forces united. Have they since become so strong that they can afford to be divided? If it were possible to punish adequately those members of organized labor who create these divisions of the forces of labor no punishment could be too severe

OF TWO EVILS

The little boy in this story from Touche a Tout was evidently a firm believer in the old adage, "Of two evils choose the less." The turning a corner at full speed he collided with the minister.

"Where are you running to, my little man?" asked the minister, when he had regained his breath.

"Home!" panted the boy. "Ma's going to spank me."

"What!" gasped the astonished minister. "Are you eager to have your mother spank you that you run home so fast?"

"No," shouted the boy over his shoulder as he resumed his homeward flight, "but if I don't get there before pa, he'll do it!"—Youth's Companion.

THE PRAYER OF LIFE

SPIRIT of Truth, severe and stern,
Conquer my fancies vainly wild,
Teach me thy ways, that I may learn
To be an honest, useful child.
Spirit of Courage,—when I read
My heart, and find my soul's great truth,—
Give me the strength to own my creed
And trust myself—a fearless youth.
Spirit of Love, in me awake
Such deference to the Father's plan,
That I may live for His dear sake,
And serve the world as God's good man.

The right to organize is a sham, a trick, a deceit, unless it carries with it the right to organize effectively and the right to use that organized power to further the interests of the workers. This implied right must be assured. If iti s alleged that acts in themselves criminal or unlawful are committed in endeavors to effect organization or to secure the benefits of organization, let those acts be dealt with under due process of law. But in the name of free labor, in the name of free government and free society, let the right to organize never for one instant be menaced or withheld. That right is the foundation upon which all else is builded.—Sam Gompers.

When the United States bought a controling interest in the Panama Railroad Company it made a profitable investment. In the last fiscal year the net profits of the company amounted to over two million dollars, or about thirty per cent. on the seven million dollars' worth of capital stock. Even after the canal is done, the government will keep on running the railroad and the steamship line that is connected with it. The profits made by the railway while the canal was building will amount to a good deal more than the government paid for it.

"PORK BARREL" ROAD BUILDING.

When enthusiastic advocates of good roads from all parts of the country meet in convention it is inevitable that a number of ill considered plans should be proposed, plans that would do far more harm than good to the cause.

One of these is the proposition that the federal government should vote an indefinite number of millions for the work and place the money in the hands of the local authorities. That simply means dividing it among the constituencies that have returned congressmen with a pull. It is the old rivers and harbors plan, which has wasted more millions of public money than would suffice to build a road from Detroit to New Orleans and keep it in repair for twenty years, not to speak of laying out a grassy boulevard strip and a footwalk on either side of it. This money has been deliberately shoveled into little harbors that were never heard of before and that which never sheltered anything bigger than a tug or a fishing boat.—Better Roads.

P. O. DEPARTMENT AND GOOD ROADS.

t Directs Co-operation With Authorities For Improvement.

Good roads movements throughout the country are to have substantial support from the postoffice department.

First Assistant Postmaster General Roper has notified officially postmasters of all classes that "it is the desire of the department that they co-operate with state and county authorities in the endeavor to improve the condition of the public roads.

"The department's attention," continues Mr. Roper, "has been attracted to proclamations issued from time to time by the governors of states designating certain days as good roads days, and postmasters, as representatives in their communities of the national government, are expected to manifest as active an interest in this movement as is consistent with the proper performance of their official duties."

COST OF DRAGGING ROADS.

C. F. Chase of North Dakota Agricultural College Gives Estimates.

At the home farm in southeastern Nebraska, writes Professor Chase there is a stretch of road a half mile in length that we have dragged for seven years. Only once during this period has this road been worked with anything but the drag. Two years ago the side ditches were cleaned with the common road grader.

DRAGGING A COUNTRY ROAD

A careful record of the time taken to keep this road dragged has been kept, and for the first five years it runs as follows:

Two trips for one man and one team requiring one hour's time for one dragging is the basis taken. The first year we dragged it fifteen times, the second thirteen, the third seventeen, the fourth twelve and the fifth fourteen times, or seventy-one draggings of one hour's time during five years. This at 30 cents an hour for man and team is $4.26 a year for the half mile. For a mile it would be $8.52 annual cost of maintenance. Another road in the immediate vicinity cost less than $10 per mile annually. The soil is not quite as heavy as Red river soil, but the rainfall is a little more than thirty inches. A case is noted in Public Roads Bulletin 48, United States department of agriculture, where the cost of similar maintenance of roads in Arkansas was $11 per mile. State Engineer Gerhart of Kansas puts the range of cost for dragging at from $4 to $10.

The cost for North Dakota should not be over $10 per mile, while in most cases it would be much less, the cost depending upon the character of the soil, the rainfall, traffic and grade. As an average for all dirt roads I would place the annual cost of maintenance at $7.50 per mile or $460,740 to drag in a satisfactory manner the roads in North Dakota one year.

The total expenditure on public roads of North Dakota outside of towns in 1911 was $691,540. If properly organized and if the people were educated we could properly maintain our earth road with present road fund and have $230,800 left for bridges, new construction, etc.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Good Fairy.

Follow Fairy Find-a-Way
If you follow any.
Those who do so always say
He has songs a-many
And will open wide a door
Where it seemed was none before.

If you, honest, have a doubt
Who is best to follow
Try-Again and Look-About,
Quick as any swallow,
Come and whisper you and say,
"Follow Fairy Find-a-Way!"
—Children's Magazine.

Crowning the Queen.

The fairies were almost in despair. It was the day before the night of the queen's coronation ball, at which she was to be crowned.

The fairies had made a very pretty crown for the queen, but the naughty elves had stolen it. They hadn't time to make another, and they were very unhappy.

As they were going to the ball they heard sounds behind them and looked around and saw the queen in her beautiful chariot. They saw also that she had a crown on her head.

They crowded around her eager to hear her story, and I will tell it to you as she told it to them.

"As I was walking across the grass near the woodcutter's cottage," began the fairy in her beautiful, soft voice "looking at the sunset, I stumbled over something. It was the woodcutter's little daughter.

"She had been picking flowers for her mother and overheard all that you all said about having no crown for me. She jumped up, took off her ring and put it on my head and said I could have it, so that is how I came to have a crown."

Plucky Sparrows.

When feeding time comes around at the zoo one of the keepers spreads on a large wooden square in the giant birdcage big pieces of raw beef.

The eagles gather round, the vultures gather round, and even the griffon vultures and the awful lammergeier draw close. With their strong talons they clutch a piece of the red meat, hold it close to the ground and tear it with their beaks.

The sparrows are on hand. They enter the cage where these big birds make their home. Flitting here and there, a sparrow will peck at a piece of meat which a terrible eagle clutches in his talons and will try to drag it away, eagle and all. A little bold sparrow, busy and hungry, will elbow her way into the flock of terrible birds and in her actions seems to say, "I can lick a cageful of eagles, and when any eating's going on you have got to count me in."

An Egg Trick.

An odd experiment is that of putting an egg in a bottle without breaking the shell. Soak the egg, which must be fresh, for several days in strong vinegar. The acid of the vinegar will eat the lime of the shell so that while the egg looks the same it is really very soft.

Only a little care is needed to press the egg into the bottle. When this is done fill it half full of limewater and let it stand. The shell will absorb the lime and become hard again, and after the limewater is poured off you have the curious spectacle of an egg the usual size in a small necked bottle which will be a great puzzle to those who do not know how it is done.

Solving the Question.

Ruth and Helen's mother was trying to teach the little girls the value of unselfishness and not always wanting their own way. One day she got them a couple of pieces of cake, and as one piece was larger she said, "Now, to whom shall I give the larger piece?" Each girl said to give it to the other but Helen, seeing this did not solve the problem, said, "Well, mamma, you had better do as Ruth says this time."

Conundrums.

Where can you find the longest word in the English language? In the dictionary.

What is this? Up and down, up and down, touching neither sky nor ground. A pump handle.

If you saw a bee sitting on a flower and you wished to get the flower without disturbing the bee, what would you do? Wait until the bee flew off.

She Was Careful.

She was a little four-year-old, always talking, talking. One day she was much annoyed with her older sister Louise, so she went to her mother with the complaint, saying: "Mother Louise says that I talk too much, but I don't talk too much, do I, mother? I never say somethin' till I get through sayin' somethin' else. Is that talkin too much?"

Sweet Music.

The other day my little girl, just two years and three months old, was wheeling her Teddy bear and doll in the doll buggy, the wheels of which needed oiling and were creaking loudly. She pushed the cart around the room and said, "Listen, mamma; Teddy and Katy are taking a music lesson."

The Difference.

"Effie," asked little Margie, who was slowly spelling words from a first reader, "how can I tell which is a 'd' and which is a 'b?'"

"Why," replied Effie wisely, "the 'd' has its tummy on its back."

The Octopus.

The octopus has wicked eyes
And eight arms, long and slim.
His body's made of squashy stuff.
I'd hate to step on him.

MOTHERHOOD AND POLITICAL ACTIVITY

Unlike many of my youthful companions I never wished to be a boy. As a mature woman I have always been satisfied with my sex.

To be a woman, with a woman's intuitions, sympathies, understanding of other women's problems and a heart big enough to desire to help all womankind always seemed to me a most desirable part in life. To add to this the experience of wifehood and motherhood ought to make any normal woman thankful to her Creator for the great responsibilities and blessings he has bestowed upon her.

Motherhood, especially, is a refining experience, in even the most frivolous existence, and in a woman of earnestness of purpose who realizes that life is an opportunity for helpfulness so as large a circle as her influence can reach motherhood may reach out to encircle the whole race in her protecting arms.

I am glad I am a woman, a wife, a mother and a grandmother.

I do not remember a time in my life, however, when I did not believe that women should have a voice in the government and regulations of the affairs of the nation. I have always been in favor of woman suffrage. I believe that the franchise is a broadening experience for women. My heart has often been stirred by the wrong and injustice inflicted on the weak and poor, whether man or woman, and again and again I have said, "If women were helping to make the laws for the family of this nation such injustices would not be."

In the campaign for equal suffrage, which resulted in giving the balot to Kansas women in 1912, I spoke for it and organized the women in several counties. But I had no political bee in my bonnet while so doing, nor since. In my advocacy of woman suffrage I have simply been desirous that the woman's viewpoint of legislation should be adequately represented in our Legislature and in the halls of Congress.

Strangely enough it was a man, and not a woman, who first made the suggestion to me that I should become a candidate. And it is quite within the possibilities that Kansas may be the first State to send a woman to Congress. While I have not made any arrangements yet for a house in Washington, I am determined to convince any who may be skeptical that I really can read and understand, at least as well as the average man, the problems of legislation.

We women, like Mary of old, have kept many things and pondered them in our hearts. Of late years we have talked them over in our clubs and other meetings. We have listened patiently to the political orator, have read widely and thoroughly and most of us have formed some conclusions. We have been preparing ourselves for the franchise which we knew was to be ours.

I believe we shall use the ballot as wisely as men do. I think we shall form a larger independent class of voters than the country has yet had.

Large numbers are already trained, through the altruistic work of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and our federated clubs, to accept defeat and not to be discouraged. Hence it is reasonable to anticipate that women will work and vote for measures that may not have an immediate prospect of success rather than to bend their energies toward party victory.

THE GOLDEN WEST

Across the plains and mounts of snow
I wandered fifty years ago
To lands of sun and peaceful rest
Within the boundless Golden West.
Land of orange and the vine
And blushing roses superfine
With sunny skies and sparkling stars
That twinkle round the field of Mars.
Its lakes and streams and dashing falls
Now echo to the eagle calls
Screaming in freedom through the air
Devoid of pain or fear or care.
The Grand Pacific loudly roars
Against the sands and rocky shores
Rolling in liquid waves of fate
To open wide the Golden Gate.
When Commerce with her ceaceless wing
Enthrill the laborer and bring
The food and wealth of every clime
Adown the fruitful grooves of time.
The land of grain and golden rock
That even the storms and earthquake shock
Could not destroy the people's right
Who work for love and law and right.
The California Pioneer.
Has never had a master peer
And from the mine and field and crag
He reigns without a boast or brag.
The Panama Canal will be
A highway for the brave and free
And all the Globe shall go with zest
To join the glorious Golden West.
The Exposition is secure
And just as suns and stars are sure
To shine in glory day and night
The world will view its grandest sight.
When the great canal is finished
And two oceans undiminished
With their mingled waters hurled
Shall float the commerce of the world!

THE ROMANCE OF FARMER DALE

Lost Faith In Womankind and Then Regained It.

I was on a wheeling tour and stopped for supper and all night at a forlorn looking farmhouse. I was surprised to see no woman about, all the work being done by the owner of the place, Ezra Dale. After supper I lighted a pipe and sat on the porch smoking. Dale came and sat beside me.

"You have finished your evening chores early," I said. "When my wife is without a servant she never gets the dishes washed before 9 o'clock.

"Waal, you see, I don't do it that a-way. I wash dishes oncet a week."

"Don't you think a wife would be handy? She could do your mending."

"Don't need no wife. I got needles an' thread an' buttons."

"Where's your thimble?" I asked.

"Don't need no thimble."

"Did you never have a love affair?"

"Yes, oncet. It was when I was a young feller—very young an' very green. I used ter look on a gal as a heathen would look on a sacred image. There was a little one livin' across the creek, Farmer Owens' daughter Daisy. Purty? Ye bet, an' gentle as a kitten. She tuk a shine to me. I was a fair lookin' young feller then, straight an' slim an' light on my feet. One evenin' I was a-passin' Farmer Owens', an' Daisy come runnin' out with her finger a-bleedin' an' asked me to tie it up fur her. I had ter git her arm under mine somehow an' hold on ter her hand an' wrap the linen strip an' wind the string an' a lot of things all at the same time. While I was a-doin' of it her hair got ag'in my cheek, an'—waal, I lost my head an', turnin', put an arm around her an' kissed her.

"Do ye know, stranger, I've since made up my mind she done it all a-purpose. I b'lieve she cut her finger on-tentionally. I tell ye, women folks is tricky."

"I think that was a very nice feminine way of catching your attention," I remarked. "Go on."

"That's jist what I did do. I went on from day ter day, week ter week, till it seemed ter me if anything happened between me an' that gal I'd collapse. Somethin' did happen. Farmer Owens tuk a farm han' fur the hayin', an' what did Daisy do but take him out in her buggy that her father bought fur her at Christmas an' drive right by that house a-purpose ter show him off ter me. I tell ye, stranger, she had the wickedest eye in her ye ever see."

"Another feminine trait," I observed. "Miss Daisy was evidently a woman."

"She was a woman, stranger, an' the worst kind of a one," Dale went on ingubriously. "She broke me all up. I jist rented this farm an' went away. I didn't come back fur ten years. Then I made up my mind that women folks wasn't wuth worryin' about, an' I tuk my farm ag'in an' began ter work it. The fust time I went by Farmer Owens' Daisy come out—she had growed ter be a fine lookin' young woman of twenty-six—an' what do ye suppose she did?"

"I can't imagine."

"Asked me if I wouldn't tie up a cut finger. She had the same wicked look in her eye she had when she drove that lopsided farm han' by my house ten years afore. Women is the persistentest critters I ever see. I jist squared off an' said: 'Ye don't git me that a-way ag'in. Ye done it oncet, an' that's enough.' But, do ye know, stranger, she was so slick about it that in five minutes I had my arm about her an' she was a-restin' her head on my shoulder. She was a-cryin', too—cryin' crockerdile tears, no doubt.

"Waal, we was engaged, but it didn't las' long. The question come up as ter whether we'd be married by a justice or a parson. I don't like parsons myself, an' I wanted a justice. Daisy wanted a parson, an' she was so blame set about it that I reckoned if she was as obstinate about a small matter like that she'd be wantin' ter run the farm, so I called the thing off, an' I've been livin' alone here ever since."

"Mr. Dale," I said, "you have mistaken natural feminine traits for general cussedness."

"That's what they is, I tell ye, stranger. Ye don't understand."

"You have declined to give up that which to a woman is a great deal, while to you it is nothing. Miss Owens was right to insist on being married by a parson, and you were ungenerous to refuse her. Now, let me give you a bit of advice. Miss Owens is still single? Yes. Well, go to her and tell her that when you first met her you were a blundering idiot and that later you were an obstinate brute. Say that if she will overlook your past errors you will spend your life in doing penance."

"Why, stranger, if I was ter do that I'd never have any own way about anything afterward."

"It is the only way to have your own way about everything with a woman. Toss it all into her hands, and she'll toss it right back to you. More than that, she'll expect you to lead, and if you don't lead she'll not respect you."

"Ye don't mean it! Say, stranger, what sort of a makeup do ye call that anyway?"

The next summer I rode past Farmer Dale's place. It was the trimmest looking farm in the county. After supper the farmer told me how much better contented he was while Mrs. Dale was washing the dishes.

Woman's World

President Aids Housewives In Fighting High Cost of Living.

MRS. JULIAN HEATH.

Mrs. Julian Heath, national president of the Housewives' league, said not long ago: "I blame the high price of food conditions primarily on women—those who never know the price of anything before it is bought or prepared and those who do not know good food from bad. Of course there may be some other sociological and economic aspects. We have all paid the price for our thoughtless sister, and we want conditions to change, and generally what the women of the nation really want they get."

This very frank statement by Mrs. Heath has proved itself prophetic in the face of the recent announcement that the government at Washington is engaged in the preliminary work of a nationwide investigation of the causes of the cost of high living and remedies for the problem.

The problem, as the administration is considering it, is embraced in these two divisions:

First.—How to provide the average farmer with the ready means to increase the production of his land.

Second.—How to lift for all the people, and particularly the masses in the great centers of population, the burden of the steadily increasing cost of food. It is to the solution of these two questions that the administration in both the executive and legislative branches is turning its attention.

Within the past few weeks the public has been told that this winter city dwellers will be compelled to pay 75 cents per dozen for fresh eggs and that eventually fresh meat, beef in particular, will command a retail price as high as $1 a pound. Indeed, the trend is toward a decided jump in all food commodities. This, administration officials say, emphasizes the great urgency of governmental action. The work has progressed to the point where the legislative branch will be asked to lend its support and pursue the work along definite lines with important and farreaching legislation at the winter session of congress.

Women in all walks of life will watch this investigation on the part of the president with great interest, involving, as it does, their daily expense budget.

Invention For Afflicted.

Mrs. Ella Clark Bennett, born deaf, dumb and blind, has invented a method of communication. She wears a glove with the letters of the alphabet on it in indelible ink. Once a person knows the location of the letters it is easy to converse with Mrs. Bennett.

NOTES ABOUT WOMEN.

Miss Eva Bibeau refused the position of city auditor at Long Beach, Cal., which carries with it a salary of $2,400 a year.

The Pennsylvania State college has received a gift of $6,200 from the State Federation of Women's Clubs, the proceeds of which will maintain scholarships for two women of the state.

Mrs. Wilfred Chase of Merrimack, Mass., has gone into partnership with her husband as a house wrecker and now goes out with him every day and does as much physical labor as he does.

An interesting form of training has been introduced into a well known girls' school in the shape of a bank where the pocket money of the girls may be deposited and drawn just as from a regular bank.

REDWOOD CITY RUMBLINGS

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Thomas spent Sunday here with friends. They reside in Berkeley, where they have a very pretty home.

Miss Ulreca Sahlberg, who graduated from the State Normal School in San Francisco last week, has been appointed a teacher in the Alpine school, near La Honda. She will begin teaching next Monday.

Weeden Brothers of Menlo Park have been awarded a contract to erect a neat cottage for W. A. Maloney adjoining his wholesale liquor store on El Camino Real, south of town at a cost of $3000.

Miss Sophie Mengel left last Tuesday for Arizona to spend six weeks with her aunt, who has been a resident of that state for some years. The many friends of the young lady wish her a pleasant journey and a delightful time in the land of cactus and sagebrush.

Harold Stevens has resumed his studies at the grammar school after spending two months in a San Francisco hospital. The little fellow met with an accident while shooting on the marsh last winter and suffered the loss of two of the fingers of his right hand by the discharge of a gun while he was attempting to cross a fence. The boy wil not be handicapped very much as he will have the full use of the hand.

District Attorney Swart went over to the coast Wednesday and accompanied by Supervisor Joseph Francis, witnessed the breaking of ground for the new road down the coast at Farallone City. Quite a crowd gathered to see the first shovel of earth turned on the new highway, which when constructed means a new era for that section of the county. Joe Willison, the contractor, has a splendid equipment and will rush the work.

The justice court of the Third township earned in fines during the year of 1913, the sum of $2025, the amount being more than twice the annual salary of the justice. However, the amount was not near as large as the year previous. This may be accounted for by the fact that motorists are beginning to learn that they must obey the speed laws and fines are not so much, in fact they have dropped nearly sixty per cent since 1912.

J. Somers was sentenced Friday by Judge Lampkin to pay a fine of $35 for speeding. He was arrested for the offense on March of last year by Officer Brown and told to appear for trial, but disregarded the admonition and did not come to Redwood City. Brown saw him the other day coming down the peninsula and he again arrested him. Judge Lampkin was at first inclined to impose a jail sentence, but on the pleadings of Somers, he finally let him off with a fine.

P. H. McEvoy will hold a big auction sale on Saturday, the 21st instant at which he will dispose of all of his stock and farming implements. Mr. McEvoy wil retire from business.

San Mateo Civic League

The San Mateo Center, California Civic League, has effected a permanent organization in San Mateo with the following officers:

Mrs. George B. Miller, president.

Mrs. R. McRoskey, first vice-president.

Mrs. George A. Merrill, second vice-president.

Mrs. L. E. Aubury, secretary.

Mrs. Augusta Geary, treasurer.

Mrs. J. E. Vickerson, chairman districts.

The idea originated with the ladies who served on the late grand jury. They cliam to have the approval of Judge Buck and almost all the county officials. It is their intention to work along in an earnest way for all the objects that civic betterment implies —viz: health, sanitary conditions, extermination of filth and flies, etc.

Our private idea of a super-man is a reporter that never wrote that Tom, Dic or Harry had "sued his wife for divorce."

St. Bruno Church Entertainment

Saturday evening, March 14, the parishioners of St. Bruno's church, San Bruno, the Rev. W. J. Cantwell, pastor, will give a high class entertainment in honor of St. Patrick at Green's Hall. A most attractive program will be presented, including some of the best amateur and professional talent in San Francisco. There will be Irish songs, dances, music, recitations, etc.

Special music for the social to follow the program has been secured, and a most enjoyable evening is assured everybody attending. Frank S. Drady of Lomita Park will act as master of cremonies for the evening.

Delegations from along the Peninsula have promised to be in attendance.

Every holder of an admission ticket will be entitled to a chance of winning a pot of real shamrock recently received from the Emerald Isle.

Death of W. W. Naughton

W. W. Naughton, president of the Press Club, sporting editor and acknowledged around the world as the greatest authority and most convincing writer on all manly sports, died Tuesday morning at his home in San Francisco from an attack of heart failure.

Death came to him in sleep and his end was peaceful and painless. He lay down confident that he had overcome a recent and serious attack of the heart and looking forward to a continuation of his generous life and useful career. But in his sleep he ceased to breathe and in the full flush of a splendid and dignified manhood he was no more.

ASSESSOR'S INSTRUCTIONS

TO OWNERS OF REAL ESTATE AND PERSONAL PROPERTY

The law requires each and every person who owns any class of property to annually, during the months of March, April or May, file a statement with the Assessor or his deputy in the county where his property is located. You should give a statement of all property owned by you on the fir st Monday in March at 12 o'clock m.

No change can be made by the Assessor after he turns over his books to the Board of Supervisors on the first Monday in July. The Board then sits as a Board of Equalization during the month of July.

Remember, if you fail to give in your assessment you fail to comply with the law and may cause yourself, the Assessor and Tax Collector much trouble, and very likely cause yourself expense.

It is much more satisfactory to the Assessor, as well as to yourself, to have your assessment correct when you go to pay your taxes.

C. D. HAYWARD,

Assessor San Mateo County.
